New €50 note released

The European Central Bank (ECB) unveiled the new €50 banknote last month and announced that it will enter circulation on Tuesday 4 April 2017.

The introduction of the new note marks the latest step in making euro banknotes even more secure. After the €5, €10 and €20, the €50 is the fourth denomination in the second series of euro banknotes, known as the Europa series. The €50 is the most widely used euro banknote, accounting for 45% of all banknotes in circulation.

We will update all applicable ITL EURO datasets ahead of the notes release in April 2017 and create a SMART Update Tool - €50 to ease the update process for operators. Read more about the new €50 note on our website and in future bulletins.
